“Are Multiracial Families the New Normal?: Perspectives on Raising Mixed Race Children in the UK”

Bio:

Fariba Soetan is a writer, journalist and Mama blogger whose interest is on mixed race identity, interracial relationships and raising multiracial kids in today's world. Her own experience as well as her academic background have given her a unique perspective on the issues, questions and advantages being a parent of multiracial kids can bring.

Fariba's work has been featured on BBC Women's Hour, the Huffington Post, Black Hair and Beauty and other publications. She is mixed Iranian and English, grew up in Canada and is raising three multiracial girls with her Nigerian husband in London. Her blog can be found at www.mixedracefamily.com.
